Whispers from The Brighter World

Tuesday, October 16, 2012 — 10:00 a.m.

A new week begins; it is a new step made in a year. There is no time to lose. Each of our aspirants is advancing at their own pace, we cannot force anything; what matters is their commitment and regular practice. Some situations make them aware of the need to practice, to not neglect what is an important benefit to them. In an instant, all can be turned upside down, destroying the certitudes upon which humans often rely without taking into consideration the realities of their life's path. Life is so fragile, so surprising in terms of the unforeseen; surrendering to the Divine is a sign of wisdom. The incarnate Master works behind the scenes; he is the essential relay between divinity and humans. His powers are greater and more decisive in a process of this kind. All this is not easy to understand; we cannot put forward too many great truths at this time. People's minds must open up more and consider what really exists in the universe, rather than what is said and done in relation to these concepts. The plurality of worlds actually exists, humans must become aware of it — followers of the 'flat earth' theory still exist! With these messages and some of our books, our abhyasis here can have an inkling of what is, even though much remains for them to discover. The time has come when humanity must advance in knowledge. May the reality revealed to human beings make them more fraternal and human, in the sense of tolerance towards others as far as races and ideals are concerned.

"May all be enlightened and blessed; that is our wish and our action."
