Whispers from The Brighter World

Let yourself be carried towards this divine splendour, that which delights your heart. There begins that contact which is renewed and appreciated each day. It generates these messages that are more and more sought after by beings who are receptive and really committed to our system. This system will significantly leave its mark on the new era and will thus place these beings in tune with the vibrational power of the sovereign Spirit. The latter builds that which cannot be perceived by a human being, though it is essential to his elevation. The Stone Age, which we alluded to recently, is long gone; it is up to today's human beings to grasp what we are offering in this special context. All are not aware of the situation. Having reached this pivotal point in his evolution, the human being must make a choice: to move forward, or to stagnate without seizing the opportunity offered to him to anticipate events.

"Make of that what you will; humans have their own judgement, their good or bad tendencies with which they must contend. There lies the challenge of an incarnation. A life without trials, without problems of any kind, would not be constructive in the way we conceive it. Everyone carries their own burden which is necessary for their evolution. Everything has to be paid for; everything has to be deserved here below. The positive results of life represent the most valuable asset, one that determines what comes next on all levels.

"Accepting one's situation and being thankful is an indication of nobility of soul. It is not always easy to react like this. We all went through many ordeals on this Earth. Who is spared? Thus are the rules.

"It is up to each one to react according to his deepest convictions and an inner call that is louder than anything else, leading the being to the best in himself. This quest is difficult in some ways, but it is highly liberating.

"We wish courage and determination to all in going further and further under the enlightened guidance of the Masters, manifesting on the human plane as the living Master who is the custodian of all our powers in every respect.

"That is how it goes; we wish strength and courage to all in the face of adversity. We are helping them accordingly."
