Whispers from The Brighter World

Monday, November 5, 2012 – 10:00 a.m.

We have already said it: what is done for you is done for us. Service takes many forms and we accept it as such insofar as the intention is pure. Human feelings are very diverse; the best manifests itself in a process of this kind when actions are guided more by the heart than by reason. Following a spiritual way enables aspirants to develop their capacity to love, to let the many resources of a fervent heart arise in them. Engaging in a way means beginning a journey and advancing at all costs, in spite of human turbulences that sometimes arise where they are least expected. This world is not perfect – nobody is; this should be considered in the many circumstances where the ego manifests itself when least expected. All are advancing far from these considerations; the work is productive in a significant way although it is not perceptible to most people. Committing oneself accordingly, making the effort and truly wanting to move forward in a redeeming path are indications of a real yearning for the Divine. Pure hearts long only for this: to rise up, to partake in this glorious feast where celestial nourishment is abundant and especially exhilarating to absorb.

We want the best for all our brothers and sisters. Each one of them receives according to the innermost call that truly encourages them to feed on this energy. It is beautiful and so very satisfying to see a soul rising and conquering an unparalleled realm. We want the final apotheosis for all our abhyasis – that is the goal, the ultimate approach to the Divine. Here everyone has the opportunity to act in this direction. To all, our blessings!
