Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, November 10, 2012 — 10:00 a.m.

Advancing at all costs, excelling by giving one's best, that is what is proposed to human beings. Their life path on this Earth is fraught with many challenges with which they must cope. Strength in the face of adversity develops gradually inside them, and the notion of the Divine often becomes obvious — sometimes at a very young age when the being has long been refined. It's a grace to engage early in a spiritual way; not many human beings have this opportunity. Many follow family or ethnic traditions; each one has their own experience and often ends up finding their way.

"Everything is counted when one's commitment is pure and develops faith, along with eagerness to love and to grasp the true meaning of life. Each incarnation is an experience, a step forward and a strength, especially when it is recognised as a teaching necessary for the elevation of the soul.

"Opening up early to higher reality offers many opportunities. This is how it has been from time immemorial: the incarnate being is inspired and guided as is most suitable for him, often after many difficult experiences. Time brings about changes; a sudden realisation can change life completely. Thus are God's ways; each life is different and provides what is suitable for the development of the soul.

"Sometimes it takes a lot of time and painful experiences to realise what is important here below. 'What must be will be'; everyone must face up to his destiny. No one can change anything about it. Opening up to spirituality in its true sense is the goal to be reached; advancing with fervour and determination is already a big step forward on the path to wisdom. Hearts that are committed are supported and strengthened. It's up to them to act; we are by their side."
