Whispers from The Brighter World

Tuesday, November 13, 2012 – 10:00 a.m.

Enter into the silence and return to these shores of the sacred where your heart exults in loving. For your heart, these words are the key to the secret door – the one that everyone has and uses within themselves, even if they are not really aware of it. Achieving this state of profound peace liberates one from the miasmas of this world. Regaining inner harmony and uniting with the Divine is the most beautiful escape offered to the abhyasi. To surpass oneself in this ritual allows one to access the best of one's being. Our way provides some elements that ensure this advancement; individual commitment and perseverance lead to convincing results. Is there anything more beautiful than the elevation of the soul on a journey of multiple detours? These detours inevitably lead to the goal. We can see abhyasis changing over the years; although some character traits remain, at the subtle level their various bodies are being moulded differently and are following a completely different trajectory.

This method seems so simple; it hides its effects well. Nonetheless, its apparent simplicity leads to another state of consciousness. Our committed abhyasis have already come a long way. They feel these changes within themselves without truly identifying them – since they are beyond the material realm, in their most obvious manifestation. The aura of the Mission is growing; it wins over hearts that are in need and able to follow this initiatory journey with increasing ease. The power of the Spirit is sovereign; it haloes the brows of those who are surrendered, who are well suited to receive what it can provide them. This conquest of hearts is the most gratifying. Blessed are those who follow a path of liberation; peace and harmony support them and our blessings bring beauty to their journey.

This is how it is.
