My Beloved Master
Revered Babuji Maharaj

Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, November 17, 2012 — 10:00 a.m.

Those who criticise you for wrong reasons had better look at themselves and not cast their negativity onto you; there is much to say about their own behaviour. Be at peace; we know you better than anyone. Our dear son, your beloved Master, has he not been, and is he not still, criticised by evil beings? Thus is life here below where good and evil balance each other, until the day of deliverance when the world will migrate into another dimension of consciousness. That time will come; a great deal of suffering will make up the fate of many human beings for yet a long time. Through their sufferings, some of them contribute to a general relief of this suffering. Such is their mission here below where everything is counted, and where nothing escapes the wisdom of the Masters whose mission is to help and prepare humanity in taking that decisive step. It's up to each one to improve and to overcome their own weaknesses, especially by not harming others. This is of utmost importance; we do insist on this point. How can one advance in a spiritual way that offers such prospects with this kind of human behaviour?

"May all our brothers and sisters become aware of this reality and take a good look at their everyday behaviour. Thoughts are deeds, good and bad — everyone should truly become aware of this reality and become more refined in view of the opportunity offered to them to overcome their own karma. Perfection is not of this world, but it can be won over step by step. Achieving it is the real challenge for everyone. We help in proportion to their inner call. Human disturbances can be overcome insofar as the being inwardly summons his purity of heart, in a state of total surrender. Many of our brothers and sisters achieve it; we support them and bless them."

Babuji Maharaj