Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, November 18, 2012 – 10:00 a.m.

You have been withdrawn from the world for many years, far from human turbulences and entirely dedicated to this role of yours in our Mission. The state of your health has required it, but you are thus protected, as is everything you are doing here for the love of us. Nothing escapes us: beings are naked before us. Are they really aware of it? It would be well that they grasp the meaning of our comments, but this depends on their willingness to actually read these messages.

Let us see only what is beautiful in these moments; all the beings who appreciate these messages, and are increasingly nourished by them, bring beauty to their path in a certain way. Advancing in love for their Master, and gratefully accepting what he offers them, testifies to their beautiful nature and their potential to follow this redeeming way. Such an opportunity is given to today's humans who are not supposed to repeat the mistakes of those who preceded them here below. Would it be too much to ask of our abhyasis to comply with the will and decisions of this Great Being who became incarnate to help humans progress? Beautiful and great personages are working in his wake and respecting his decisions; not doing so is an insult to his person. Let us repeat it once again: everything becomes known, nothing escapes us and everything is counted. It's up to each one to become aware of this reality and to act in the desired direction for their own good, and hence for that of our Mission. We expect from all a beautiful unity of heart and spirit. Abhyasis who are committed and effective in their practice constitute a force that defies time and the onslaughts of negativity.

Blessings to all.
