Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, November 22, 2012 — 10:00 a.m.

We have discussed [through these communications] a great many topics and aspects of life in its entirety. Have we managed to open up all minds about these messages and convince those who are the most recalcitrant on this principle? It does not seem so, and it is very sad for them. We will not dwell on this detrimental fact. So many hearts feed on these messages and are thankful to the incarnate Master for being granted access to such a teaching. Our way has many resources, and everyone benefits from them according to the eagerness of their soul to access knowledge and bliss. Many achieve it and keep inside them this precious treasure without it being apparent to some of them. God's ways are many, and inscrutable; they occur when and where they want to, in their own way. Nobody is forgotten; everyone receives according to their request. Nothing can be forced, but grace can work miracles. There are miracles in this world without their being perceived as such.

"All evil cannot be avoided. Everyone must advance at their own pace; providential assistance often occurs and leads the human being to embark on a safer journey. We are pleased to witness such an expansion of this magic circle that is being accessed by seeking souls. There are more and more who are taking the step and transcending family habits or habits acquired over the years. Times are changing; minds are opening up. Many still want to ignore the laws of reincarnation and everything that constitutes the movement of life in its many aspects. Since the period of the caveman, times have changed and they will change much more; you can believe it and even imagine what the future life will be.

"To all, our blessings."
