Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, November 23, 2012 – 10:00 a.m.

Faith, surrender and trust – all driven by the purest love, the most generous love towards the Master – these incline the soul to receive what we offer that is unique on this path. It is up to each one to understand the need to clean themselves, using what we propose as a means for that, and also to harbour good thoughts without committing unedifying acts. We do not mean to be moralistic here, but nonetheless we have to pinpoint anything that can slow the evolution of our aspirants. We cannot change all thoughts and inconsiderate actions; we can only do everything possible to allow each one to overcome his or her weaknesses and move towards the goal in the most beautiful manner. It takes time to overcome one's tendencies. Who does not have them? Perfection is not of this world.

Sahaj Marg is a way that offers a wide variety of opportunities, suited to today's needs, to overcome the prevailing heaviness at all levels. It does not work visible and spectacular miracles in the sense of transforming matter. Its register extends elsewhere, in subtlety, and contributes to the glorification of souls who are surrendered and receptive. We would like to make our brothers and sisters aware that advancing on this journey also entails going beyond oneself with respect to one's own weaknesses.

The program is vast; the opportunities offered are great. Each one uses them according to their capabilities and can go very far in this personal discovery. The human being is a stranger to himself, to herself; people really do not grasp their inner nature, as the incarnate being is only one aspect of their true personality. Therefore, it is up to each one to make the necessary effort and to progress in this direction to better know themselves.
