Sunday, July 11, 1999 - 10:00 a.m.

We appoint you, spiritual mother of this ashram. We know how much it is dear to your heart and what you had left behind you to come and settle down here. Give it an unconditional love, forever. No matter what happens, you should protect its entity, now and in the future, wherever you may be; it is under your guard. There is a lot to do to restore it. You know what it must become: a luminous refuge for a great number of souls, even if its geographical location had to change. Do not ask yourself any question; as the expression goes: live from day to day. You, human beings, you want always to anticipate and think of tomorrow. Adopt this way of seeing things, you will feel better. That's all for today, as you can actually see that it's a special day for you."

Babuji