Whispers from The Brighter World

Tuesday, November 27, 2012 – 10:00 a.m.

Let the flow of our love come into you; hearts that are open and sincere feel it within themselves, and this strengthens them. Reading these messages helps those who appreciate them; they capture that very subtle energy within the messages and make it their own. 'Doesn't everything have its raison d'être?' Abhyasis of the future will capture even more what emanates from these writings, as beings will become more refined. Everything will be different, and this world will 'work' differently. New energies will transform the functioning of all that currently constitutes the machinery of life, and this will be at every level. Humans will adapt in the face of the many difficulties that will arise; it will be necessary, and it will make them stronger in the face of adversity. Getting used to a life of ease is not ideal for a so-called modern society. The major upheavals that are coming will challenge humans in their capacities to reflect and to act. All these changes will not affect the spiritual development of beings who are ready to advance come what may. Everything is planned and programmed far in advance. Strength and courage are decisive for building this future world; spirituality will become the essential conquest for the development of human beings.

Let us prepare that future. Everything must change; time will do its work and everything will evolve as planned. Blessed are those who are advancing towards sound values, priceless in this mad world where everything is, in some manner, going adrift.

Time will do its work. May peace and love become the goals of the greatest number of beings – there lies the major objective.
