Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, November 30, 2012 — 10:00 a.m.

Let this very special energy flow within you; this sets you apart. You did not ask for anything yet you received; such are the divine patterns. In many areas it is not enough to want, as each must also meet certain criteria in accordance with their own way of life. It is not easy for humans to understand all these rules, hence the importance of surrender. Surrender removes barriers, those that limit humans to aspirations that very often are not appropriate for their evolution. A [spiritual] journey entails confidence in its laws, as well as in the means that is offered to advance spiritually.

"When a human being understands this need and feels within a profound appeal, wisdom suggests that he should heed this sign of destiny. Feeling that you are called is a grace; missing this opportunity is unfortunate for a human being. Life is short, what remains after it? Evil, good — both can coexist, but the important thing is to become aware one day of that which is essential. From that moment, everything can change and develop differently, depending on one's aspirations. Some great mystics of the past experienced this sudden reversal, and then the greatness of their action manifested, which was performed with the most exemplary faith possible. These personages have made history in this area. Anything is possible at this level; grace operates where it wants and can create this kind of miracle. May all our aspirants rise spiritually and win over this space where the Spirit is sovereign and decisive for each one — such is our wish."
