Whispers from The Brighter World

All these positive testimonies are a delight to your heart; so many abhyasis appreciate these lines. They have the necessary openness of heart for that, and they are happy to enjoy this heavenly manna. It is a blessing for our Mission — today's Mission and, even more so, tomorrow's.

"What will the future be? Humans of today cannot imagine it. They must be prepared to face what is now, and this will prepare them for tomorrow. Their spiritual journey contributes to this to a large extent because it builds their future life with all the positive outcomes it generates. An incarnation is a step forward in that direction, the implications of which humans cannot realise. 'Blessed are the pure in heart, they shall see the light' — more than ever it is necessary to move forward in this way of the heart; it will increasingly become an absolute necessity for them. How many people realise it and really care about their potential at this level?

"To have faith and the eagerness to act accordingly attract grace. A sincere heart is heard; its calls are not futile. It is so good to see a soul flourish and gradually win over that which is essential for it. Life is short; time is so precious, and it is so often frittered away in vain steps taken in the world of matter. Developing one's life here below is not easy. So many tests follow one after the other; they are a vital force since they strengthen the being in a manner that suits him. Nothing is useless when humans take advantage of their necessary trials. Without them, what would humans be? Thus are the divine laws. It is up to each one to adapt and get stronger through them.

"Nothing is in vain under our blessings."
