My Beloved Master
Revered Babuji Maharaj

Whispers from The Brighter World

Monday, December 3, 2012 — 10:00 a.m.

We are moving forward, my dear daughter; you are receiving sufficient evidence on the progress of these messages. Many of our abhyasis now realise what these messages contribute to their spiritual journey. All this is encouraging; we can thus assess their impact. It takes a lot of time for a way like ours to truly prevail in this world. The perception of phenomena is changing, as many people are being refined and are truly progressing. One by one, doors are opening for them, giving them the motivation to go farther. Some personal experiences are crucial, which was your case. It is not always easy to immediately adhere to what we offer. Time does its work, as in everything. Important transformations will occur on this Earth, and they will modify human understanding regarding the power of the Spirit over matter. Nothing is futile. Everything is counted and, as we have already pointed out here, everything is recorded. This principle is not new; so has it always been. Whether one is open to spirituality or not, this fact is for all time, and will remain so until the end of time.

"To advance in surrendering to the spiritual Master is a major element in such a journey. His decisions must be respected; he is a guiding thread, shall we say, and leads the seeker to a reserved place that is decisive in his quest for the Divine. Such subtle work takes place, in part, unwittingly; he cannot himself perceive what is performed within him. Blessed are the wise, those who are committed in this quest that saves them a lot of time, as they will judge for themselves one day. That is how it is."

Babuji Maharaj