We are very happy to see these messages printed. They are precious and must touch the hearts more than some of my writings, which abhyasis who are not keen on this kind of reading sometimes find difficult. These contacts will arouse many comments; it is inevitable. Rationalistic people will make criticisms. They will have only to understand that an important component in another world is out of their reach. While following a spiritual way, they will either become aware of their gaps on this aspect or reject this possibility altogether.

"The same is true for what is not perceptible by all. By refusing them, they will miss a simple teaching which targets the heart. In addition to the vibration emanating from these messages, they will lose the benefits of a kind of special and subtle transmission.

"One cannot force people's minds to open up. Others will make the most of them and will be able to derive all possible benefit from them. It is high time now for people to open up to this reality; God wants it so. Humanity must open its eyes on this 'beyond' with which certain beings can communicate. That is not new and has been happening since the mists of time.

"The time has come when ignorance on this point must disappear little by little. It will take much time. Men are often obstinate; they believe any ineptitude and reject truths. It is not possible to enlighten them, about this point, by force. They must progress in their understanding. Be happy, you who have already taken this step."
