My Beloved Master
Revered Babuji Maharaj

Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, December 9, 2012 — 8:00 a.m.

My dear son,

"We are at your side more than ever. Your joys and your sorrows, we share them with you without being able to spare you them. Your sufferings sadden us so much; however, they are gems illuminating your Earthly journey. You know this very well, but our abhyasis must also know it. The harsh laws of this world have to be reckoned with by all. A spiritual Master is never spared, as widely evidenced in history.

"Your success in the Mission is exemplary. The Mission has now risen up to the level of the great ways and its prospects for action are dawning on the horizon like a sun that is preparing to enlighten the world. We rely on all beings who are committed, in a state of purity of heart and intention, to fully support you and respect the decisions you have to make, with a view to the favourable future of this spiritual way desired by the higher powers. Happy and blessed are those who respect you in everything; we read each of them like an open book. It is heartening to see how many pure followers you have who focus solely on respecting the Master as a person and also his decisions. This is highly appreciated; we can now see positive outcomes on specific measures relating to the future of the Mission. You are and will remain the inspired Master, and the builder who laid the solid foundation of this monumental Sahaj Marg, which will stand over time while continuing its momentum in the world of men.

"Be happy, my son, against all odds. We cherish you and are by your side more than ever; we carry you with so much love.

"All the best to you, dearest son."

Babuji Maharaj