Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, December 16, 2012 — 10:00 a.m.

A heart totally offered calls ours; thus is created the magic chain, one in which the victorious 'spirit' unites beings in a vibration of love. This love is indescribable by humans; it transforms the aspirant at the subtlest level and lifts him up where he was not expecting to be lifted. Everything is done in the background, far from reasoning, where an unparalleled space is won over. Our method is not spectacular; our vibratory framework is one whose strongest effects cannot be perceived by humans. Humans are being refined — isn't this the main thing? It is so nice to see a soul rising and reaching a level which, by itself, it cannot evaluate. All humans aspire to what is best; one should really want it from the outset and settle into a state of surrender and of a powerful inner call. There are various degrees in this journey; love begets love, it is in the order of things. Attaining a satisfactory level of consciousness is a huge benefit; it justifies the journey with all its underlying commitment. What remains from a lifetime, apart from that wealth of the heart protected from the material world? Hearts that are pure and determined to move forward at all costs hold a unique power: victorious love. Their future will be haloed with an energy conducive to following their chosen path, so that they will reach the goal; we are helping them. That is the way it goes."
