Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, December 21, 2012 — 10:00 a.m.

When the time for liberation has come, many souls will follow us on a path that is out of the ordinary. It is already evident on Earth, though it has not yet taken on its full vigour — currently limited to higher planes, as the vibration of this world has yet to become significantly refined. Then ways of living will change, as well as human structures; that will be the starting point of a new world relieved of its totally excessive negativity. Life here below will be organised differently. Many conquests will be required, the nature of which will be very different from the ones prevailing in this old world where true values are not specifically sought after. Everything will require reconsideration; structures will no longer be the same and the subtlety of many elements will surprise humans. Other objectives will have to be achieved; a lightening of consciousness will occur over time in order to reach another destination. Thus will everything change and humanity move towards what is good. There is so much to do. With their current genes, humans will not be able to go beyond the limitations that have been set.

"All these comments may seem unreal; these concepts are not easily discussed in this world that is currently limited to its material nature. Higher principles are yet to be discovered here below. That time will come. These messages will live beyond these transitional periods and they will remain a reference over time. The current time may seem incongruous to naysayers, but unlike them, these writings will endure through time. That is how it goes; blessed are those who appreciate them, under our blessings."
