Whispers from The Brighter World

Monday, December 24, 2012 – 10:00 a.m.

Our action is multidimensional and, moreover, it travels across the boundaries of time as experienced on Earth. Humans perceive only a very small part of this work and of what really is. In the current era, their psychic centres are not yet sufficiently open to allow them to grasp the subtlety of such action. Our spiritual work is going in this direction: refining, fortifying and fostering for our aspirants a more correct approach to phenomena. Time will allow humans to perfectly grasp what they receive, depending on their personal condition. There lies the strong point of their evolution and of our action in leading them to a satisfactory state. There is still much to do, but we can already make a very positive assessment of this uncommon action here below. Over time, this action will spread.

This unique practice of Sahaj Marg will take on its full scope, as intended for the future. The vibrations will be subtler after some major changes have taken place. Humans will have to become more refined and focus on what is essential if they do not wish to stagnate at lower levels. All this may not seem clear, but we are moving ahead as much as possible given the current negative vibratory state. An in-depth study of the subject would not be understood by all, hence the importance of moving forward with ardour on the path of the Spirit. It is of utmost importance; this very subtle energy is not yet perceived as it should be. Only a major upliftment will lead our committed abhyasis to follow this process, one that is decisive for the rest of their evolutionary journey.

Times are changing and we work ahead in order to raise awareness.
