Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, December 30, 2012 — 10:00 a.m.

The time will come when a kingdom of love and peace will be established on this Earth. There will be much to do for that; there will be many ordeals but they will generate the best. Human beings will eventually become aware of the higher reality and its role in the evolution that has been planned. Many values will prevail in this world — values that have so far been neglected due to a lack of information and the open-mindedness necessary to yield this result. How can we sensitise our brothers and sisters to this need to move forward and not put off until tomorrow that which can be developed today? Perceptive minds are busy working; they understand the importance of their commitment and of what is being created in our Mission today with the prospect of a major advancement in the future.

"Foundations are being laid; it is up to everyone to understand the importance of their action, of their involvement in a practice that should be associated with a commitment to anything that can help the Mission expand and prosper in every organisational aspect. Everything is counted, nothing is trivial, and any goodwill is appreciated. The Mission is a whole and is expanding across the world. Many hearts are committing themselves; they understand the importance of such an approach. Without this salutary outlook, where would humanity's hope lie? Humanity is growing in terms of the number of incarnate beings, but the prospects for peace and love to manifest here on Earth have yet to become a reality. May our Mission one day shine with a thousand lights: those of an eagerly anticipated new era."
