Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, January 9, 2013 — 10:00 a.m.

We give you the necessary strength to do what otherwise would not have been possible. You see here what love can do; in this framework, that energy is and will remain a major asset. We repeat it again: our abhyasis must be convinced that sincere thoughts supported by love open the doors of our hearts. Nothing can touch us more than that. Working for the Mission with the good of all as an objective, beyond the multiple divergences of human nature, remains a major element in this vast undertaking blessed by the divine powers, as it is beneficial to all humans. That which is being built today will be obvious tomorrow: the spiritual upliftment of all beings, free from the negative burdens of today which pin them to materiality. This outlook is encouraging; may it mobilise all our aspirants towards the general good.

"Upcoming events will awaken people's consciousness: a solid foundation in spirituality. When this consciousness is adapted to the new era, it will be a major asset. It is high time that humans understood the merits of such an approach. Present-day life is not really conducive to raising awareness in this manner, but everything can change in this domain, as in many others. The humans of the future will be surprised by today's way of life, as the future will show another way to conceive of life. Everything will fall into place in due time.

"Blessed are the hearts that are willing to follow a way of the heart that is effective beyond appearances, and whose results are redemptive. Moving forward with that in view is encouraging. Despite apparent difficulties, the best things will continue to be achieved for the good of all."
