Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, January 10, 2013 – 10:00 a.m.

Plunge into yourself, in this most special energy that delights your soul. This moment of communion is intense; you don't ask for anything, you offer to the Divine, to this unique power that has inspired your life and fulfilled its mystical aspirations to one day be led to us. That moment was a rare happiness for your heart. You felt the attraction of our hearts strongly, and you then rediscovered a family of souls, to your greatest happiness.

As with all our brothers and sisters, your present incarnation is the outcome of previous ones; each incarnation contributes its note to the entire song of life, in which the most beautiful ones are inspiring and devoted to the Divine. The love song that emanates from an ardent soul, in unison with that of our brothers and sisters who are committed in the same manner, creates an appealing aura of beauty capable of attracting our souls. There is so much ugliness on the Earth, but let us forget that; in these moments, let us see only the good in each person amidst the splendours of creation. From the infinitely great to the infinitely small, isn't everything a continuous miracle? Do humans really see all the beauty and richness of what this prodigious nature offers them? Too often, they ignore it and unscrupulously destroy life in all its forms. Humans of the future will have this consciousness of life at all levels, and they will respect it; their conditions of existence here below will be completely different. Human beings will be more refined and more capable of grasping the full subtlety of what surrounds them.

May the time come of a world in perfect harmony at all levels of creation, characterised by peace and love. May all our abhyasis strongly call for those times.
