Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, January 16, 2013 – 10:00 a.m.

Time does its work; it clarifies situations and operates according to criteria that quite often escape human beings. What seems unimportant at first can yield very positive aspects and then be recognised, including our Mission.

Everything evolves, and this applies to an organisation like ours, whose worldwide expansion brings some adjustments. That which is essential is immutable and becomes clear over the years as the number of our aspirants increases. Adaptation is required at the human level; it is not always easy, and changes can bewilder our brothers and sisters. Only what is essential matters: the spiritual aspect, unique in its essence and more effective than it seems. Today's humans don't spend hours in prayer – they have to be offered an effective and beneficial method in these pivotal times when humanity, in a certain way, is preparing future times.

These messages, appreciated by many of our aspirants, bring some edifying elements in this domain. They should be read with the heart; after their profound meaning has been grasped, beyond the intellect, they then take on their full significance. Blessed are the simple beings who know how to discover in themselves all the beauty of a spiritual process like ours – one in which the sovereign Spirit transforms hearts in their innermost depths, where the Unalterable Beauty is revealed. Here, surrender and simplicity open the doors of the sacred. May all our abhyasis advance towards that prospect.

Blessings to all.
