Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, January 18, 2013 – 10:00 a.m.

There is always something to say; repetition is necessary. Doesn't it constitute, in itself, a large part of your activities? In the practice, it is an essential aspect; each day leads aspirants to repeat the same ritual, and they do not complain about it. Experience shows them the result of these acts repeated day after day; they strengthen their bodies with appropriate food and their spirits through their daily practice. The call of the heart is important and decisive for true advancement. Both aspects of this spiritual approach bring about the desired results. Nothing is useless in this domain. Meditation punctuates the days; cleaning is an important aspect, and it too should not be neglected. This is in the order of things. Repetition confirms one's deep commitment every day. Improving oneself through the practice – isn't this the desired goal?

It is beautiful and delightful to see the advancement of beings; their steadfast faithfulness towards us gradually leads them to what will one day become their Incomparable Peace. We emphasise this point, but how can we not? The stakes are too important for us to not continually come back to this issue. Time lost cannot be made up – save for some exceptions and by divine grace, when a particular context can facilitate a special situation. All of you may say that all this is unclear, but the divine laws reserve assets that are beyond human understanding.

May all our aspirants realise the importance of their commitment; it is decisive for the continuation of their journey.

This is how it is!
