Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, January 19, 2013 – 10:00 a.m.

Our continual repetitions are intended; who among our abhyasis is perfect and holds the truth? We want the best for one and all, according to their capacity to truly integrate our comments, and not in a superficial manner that is limited to form.

All sacred texts are repetitive. Truth is both one and manifold; each person receives it according to their ability to go beyond the letter of the text. The objective is to lead the reader to go deeper within, based on a text whose sole purpose is to heighten the awareness of our brothers and sisters about the reality of the subtle being. These repetitions are meant to take one ever further in the understanding of phenomena and of what is essential to truly progress in an incarnation.

We offer everything possible to help our abhyasis better grasp a very special system that is offered at the present time for good reasons. We cannot convince them all. The potential of each one is different; what deeply touches one person may go completely unnoticed by another who does not have the same sensitivity at that specific moment of reading. Tomorrow it may be otherwise, and that aspirant will then discover the profound meaning of seemingly trifling comments that didn't capture their attention the day before. Human beings are like that; hence these constant and necessary repetitions.

We are doing the best for everyone; our fervent readers benefit from it. Our comments are simple, it is true, but this is intended.

This is not a literary work that aims to be evaluated as such – we are well beyond that kind of writing. It is up to each one to interiorise themselves enough to grasp what is essential and given here for that purpose.

Blessings to all.
