Whispers from The Brighter World

Monday, January 21, 2013 – 10:00 a.m.

These messages punctuate the days in our Mission. The progress of the Mission is taking place slowly, but in a sure and constructive manner destined to leave its mark on current times. Such writings offer something unique and add to what already exists. They form a unified whole that has a certain richness in this domain.

A number of our abhyasis appreciate them. Each one perceives things in his or her own way and advances towards a deeper understanding of all that we are offering. We cannot force anything. The sensitivity of our abhyasis is developing over time, and with their advancement in the practice. Over the years, we can measure the progress that the practice generates – it is remarkable and justifies all our actions at different levels.

Many things will disappear from the Earth, but what is good for human beings, for their spiritual evolution, will remain and be greatly supported. The age of enlightenment will come into this world. It may seem improbable today, yet it will come, and it will transform this humanity which is suffering in many ways.

Since the most ancient times, humans have been seeking to destroy, to take power – a power that is so very illusory. They stoop to compromises that are not worthy of them. Most of them neglect an essential aspect of their lives on this Earth. They believe they have only one life and that it does not lead to any consequences. This is a serious mistake. Through all these reckless acts, they hinder their evolution appallingly.

The aim of our way lies here: to guide human beings at the spiritual level and help them become aware of a reality that is beyond them. From life to life, a guiding thread connects beings who are committed to a way like ours; for the remainder of their journey they will benefit from help that is appropriate and salutary.

May all our brothers and sisters consider this prospect and do their very best for their progress, with our full support.
