Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, January 25, 2013 – 10:00 a.m.

You are not finished with this yet; we still have a few more things to touch upon here within the framework of these messages. It is good to repeat what is essential. Each one interprets our comments in his or her own way and is nourished by them as needed. These writings have followed up on our books; this means is more current and more easily disseminates what can help our brothers and sisters in the turbulent and disturbing life of today.

Setting aside time for the practice, for the elevation of the soul, contributes to the transformation of this world as well. Any good that is done here on Earth has repercussions elsewhere – not only on other planes of consciousness, but also in other worlds – when the vibration generated is beneficial. Nothing is lost when the divine power is at the origin of an action like this; this fact is worth considering.

Criticising these messages is to embark on a risky path, as they exist by the grace of that very power. Human reactions in all matters come about in different ways; each one has his or her own possibilities of both understanding and acting.

Many of our aspirants are committed to serving; the Mission is a whole and its needs are growing. It will increasingly become an international organisation that requires many people of goodwill. This is to be considered; nothing is simple at the human level, but in this context all must unite and overcome their weaknesses in order to put forward their creative strength, along with their heart's commitment towards the living Master and the higher powers.

Everything is counted and appreciated here. It is up to each and every one to give their best to this magnificent prospect: the elevation of this world, with our constant support.

To all, the best.
