Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, February 2, 2013 — 10:00 a.m.

The love you feel for us lends you wings here, so that you can perform this very special mission. A totally surrendered heart is the playground of the Divine; it fervently lends itself to what we expect of it. It is an ideal situation for us who can assess the effect of these writings on our faithful abhyasis. Nothing happens without reason in a spiritual way like ours; every situation that is geared towards good is desired and its impacts are supported. It is not always easy for our abhyasis to adapt to changes, some of which are necessary and brought about by life. Throughout the constant renewal of life, changes support the manifestation of the Spirit at all levels. A spiritual way like ours benefits from a special support; its action goes far beyond this world. We cannot go further in our remarks, as we would not be understood.

"Each one advances at his own pace for his personal evolution, and he finds in our teaching a practice that fully fosters it. He does not always realise it, but the work is done according to the innermost longing of the soul. Thirst for the Divine manifests itself in due time. When the call is strong, the seeker finds his way, sometimes after a few tries, before choosing that which suits him.

"All will reach the goal according to their personal commitment, faith and keenness to go further and further. A fervent heart succeeds in this; it motivates itself over time, driven in its fervour by our hearts that are attentive to each one's sincere call. This is in the order of things; we see to it for the benefit of all and of our Mission.

"This is how it is."
