In our Mission, a celebration like this [the birth anniversary of Grand-Master Lalaji] should also be prepared for within the hearts; it starts before the usual rituals made up of a few meditations. The impact goes far beyond. Grand-Master Lalaji is and will remain the beacon of this great spiritual epic that is specific to this age of enlightenment, as you call it. The light lies elsewhere, in a space where materialism is irrelevant. It is unique; pure beings feed on it. It is about a very special energy from which human beings will one day benefit, when they have changed in the course of their evolution. We are working towards it; each one of our abhyasis who is convinced and truly committed in this action contributes to it. The united Masters are as one in such a far-reaching action; the incarnate Master is somehow the receptacle of this power that operates at different levels of consciousness, hence the fact that these messages are known and appreciated beyond this world. This may be surprising, but it is a fact, even if it is beyond human understanding.

"So many truths are ignored; humans have a lot to learn, but the current state of mind is opposed to this knowledge. Humans remain attached to old beliefs which they find somehow reassuring.

"We cannot force anything about this. We can only help as much as possible the abhyasis who trust us to transcend a stage of ignorance, which is maintained voluntarily for many reasons. Our way is opening hearts to that knowledge — is it not essential on this journey of the soul! Blessed are open-minded people who are able to distinguish truth from falsehood and who are on a true spiritual journey capable of developing the subtlety of each.

"The age of enlightenment will come when highly refined beings will make of this world, if not a place of delights, a more acceptable place for humans who are driven by faith and divine love.

"Let us dream of those days, but let us also act as best we can to achieve that which seems utopian today.

"Anything is possible for this divine power."
