Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, July 15, 1999 – 8:00 a.m.

One day, you will access true knowledge. It cannot be communicated to humans, even if they are prepared to receive it. You have already understood that the important thing was inside you and is not tangible. It is an open door to infinity that is worth all the teachings.

The path that leads to the inner Master leads to realization. As you dive deeper and deeper into yourself, into the subtle layers of your being, you are drawn into this impetuous flow, which is: Love.

One day, you will all understand what true love is. You imagine, you think you know, you have only a vague idea of its reality.

It is an infinitely subtle energy that cannot really be perceived on this Earth, which is coarse in its vibration.

As you refine yourselves vibrationally, when your cells start to be divinized, you manage to glimpse paradise. There is the other side of the picture, as with all created things; perceptions are refined, sensitivity too. On certain planes of consciousness, it manifests to an extreme degree.

Therefore, understand us, we want so much to see you advance, truly, that we often have to push you, to criticize you. We try to make you understand the urgency of a real awareness on this point.

Give yourselves fully to your spiritual work; it is the only way, under the guidance of your Masters, to reach the goal as quickly as possible.
