Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, February 9, 2013 — 10:00 a.m.

These many messages have quenched the thirst of your heart throughout the years. You did not ask for anything; your stay in our Mission was programmed like that and your role was long planned. Nothing happens without reason on a plane like this where surrender is sovereign.

"All that is decisive and important in our Mission is developed in this way. Many criteria should be considered; divine plans cannot be overlooked and no one on this Earth can escape them. Major roles are established in advance and humans must live with them. So has it always been in this world; humans design many projects, but destiny plans for others. Thus is life organised here below; the Divine provides for it.

"Our Mission is flowering, and it perfumes the hearts that are attentive to the fragrance it gives off through its discrete but very effective action. Sensitive hearts are appreciative: those who have been moving towards the ultimate goal and who find here, in this somewhat special practice, favourable elements and a subtlety that suits them. Beyond reasoning and rules established by each one, and in order to comply as best as possible with what we propose, the refined being acts according to the yearnings of his heart, his needs, where only the aspirant can manage his thirst for the Divine. This thirst calls us and draws our attention; thus is the miracle accomplished and thus does the seeker find the source where his thirst can be quenched. To witness a soul rising, replete with this unique energy, is very rewarding.

"Happy are the fervent hearts that are eager to forge ahead at all costs, sometimes after a few sacrifices which, over time, cannot be regretted. The beings concerned will understand these comments which may not be clear to all. We wish everyone the best: faith, and the strength to accomplish what faith sometimes requires in terms of commitment. The fate of each one lies there, and we help them achieve the best that is possible regarding their spiritual journey."
