Whispers from The Brighter World

The heart is the essential organ for the life of the physical body, but more than that it is the seat of the soul and determines the identity of the being as a whole. It is unique and holds the key to the whole person. It is for many reasons the symbol of our Mission in its current and future expression, whereby the Mission will make its mark on people's minds on this Earth through a comprehensive approach to the Divine. This approach will be defined over time. It will correspond to a development that is global and crucial for humanity. Many events will contribute to it; we cannot anticipate, but only prepare people.

"The [new] symbol is making its way into the hearts of those abhyasis who are open to the principles we offer them. Everything is slow here below and happens in a timely way. The various elements of this symbol are simple. There is nothing special, just a few essential aspects of life on this Earth that have, as a centre point, the divine energy existing in the heart of each human cell. This remains the hidden side — as one might call it — hidden from the eyes of men, from the multitude who do not care for such singularities. In truth, everything is simple. These elements are purposely assembled here and are designated as such to define 'the new Symbol of our Mission'. That is its appropriate name, without any other spiritual consideration.

"May all our brothers and sisters one day benefit from its many advantages. Such is the spiritual objective and the final hallmark of our way in its current and future development.

"That is how it goes! May all be blessed and open to what we offer them to guide them on the path to truth and the expansion of the soul."
