Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, March 2, 2013 – 10:00 a.m.

Rise up towards the heart of your Master and our united hearts. There the wonder is accomplished and the contact established. Everyone can achieve it in their own manner. Calm and serenity induce a deep state of meditation and surrender to the Divine.

Following a spiritual way like this one provides the keys to the kingdom of the Spirit where the best is realised. How can we not repeat this ritual! Humans need these constant repetitions on both the material and spiritual levels. Whatever they may think, they are programmed in this manner in their innermost nature to thus act and find within themselves the motivation and the reference points necessary for their evolution. They become incarnate for this: to progress more and more. After many mistakes and useless journeys, they reach a desirable stage of wisdom that allows them to cross barriers, thereby opening doors which their deepest being has always longed to go through.

The quest for the Divine is the only one of its kind and promising in every respect. It gives access to a level of consciousness sufficient and favourable for the blossoming of the soul. Isn't it the intended goal, the only one that is worthwhile and that does not change! It is the central axis of the sadhana, of this progress towards the Immutable Peace. This peace is not an illusion, but an eternal reality.

What to do, what to say to make our abhyasis aware of this reality of the Sovereign Spirit! They are caught in the whirlpool of this life on Earth, whose multiple aspects often divert them from the goal to be reached. It takes time and incarnations, various tests and endless suffering, to finally understand where the Immutable Peace is. It is not accessible to all – one must win it over with a suitable mindset.

We set our aspirants on the path; it is up to them to pursue it unremittingly, if such is their deepest need and they have the courage to overcome obstacles. They are helped; let them never doubt it, even if we cannot spare them the trials necessary for their evolution. Nothing comes easily, neither here below nor anywhere else; that is how it is. We cannot remake the laws, but only help our brothers and sisters transcend them in the world of the Sovereign Spirit, where everything takes on another meaning.

May all be enlightened according to their expectations, and may they be blessed.
