Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, May 22, 2013 – 10:00 a.m.

All these writings have their raison d'être; they are received according to the perceptions of each person. The greatest number benefits from them; there lies our true motivation. To see in them mere repetition is regrettable – everyone receives what they can. One day, things may be different.

Grace is given where appropriate. We see beautiful souls opening up to true knowledge and are thereby appreciating these messages for their true worth. That is the aim: to help each of our aspirants achieve the best. Everything is done accordingly, under our constant blessings.
