Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, August 3, 2013 – 10:00 a.m.

These messages will remain one of the characteristic features of our Mission and will help people more and more – such are the divine purposes. In the future, written materials will remain an asset whereas many of the existing ways and means will disappear. We have already said this, and we repeat it: the only records that will endure over time are those written on paper. May our abhyasis remember this. Tomorrow will be another day and the future a different world. Faith, on the other hand, will keep all its prerogatives, and our Mission will continue its work in people's hearts. Isn't the heart the seat of the soul, the place of all conquests – the most noble ones in this world where everything is futile. Everything passes, everything disappears, or nearly so, whereas a spiritual path guarantees a sustainability and a sure asset. Blessed are those who set aside space and time for an approach like this; they have realised what is essential and long-lasting in an incarnation.

It can take time to recognise the need to act in this way. Frivolous pleasures are left behind one day, and the soul is ecstatic in loving. The duration of a life on Earth is short; the day one's consciousness awakens to reality, it is advisable to not waste time and to explore as soon as possible the possibilities offered to it. A spiritual way presents itself; each one finds his or her own and can then move forward with great strides. There is no time to lose. Everything is counted and generates the best when the aspirant is committed to this blessed path of evolution. Under the auspices of the united Masters, we wish the best to all and a beneficial advancement for each one.
