Time will preserve the significance of these precious writings. In reading them, the true mystic feels not only their meaning, but also a vibration that is particular to them. The resources of the heart are infinite. Being the seat of the soul in all its subtlety, the heart manages to capture what is untranslatable in human terms.

This new [esoteric] symbol of the Sahaj Marg Mission marks the changing times in which, increasingly, many people will become refined and progress in an undeniable way. We are preparing this advancement; our way is charting a path towards a promising future. Some civilisations of the past reached a level that human beings of today cannot fathom. Far from a material world that ignores real values and is obsessed with progress as it is currently understood, these beings had abilities that are unimaginable today. Materialism at any cost also has its limits. The time will come when everything on Earth will shift into another dimension.

Blessed are those who are following a path where the elevation of the soul retains all its prerogatives. Everything else amounts to nothing; spirituality is the only secure and decisive asset in human evolution. We have no magic wand, but our arguments are convincing enough that an increasing number of sensitive beings are following in our wake and verifying over time a progress that is undeniable, even though it is not spectacular. May all rest assured – the results are there, and we appreciate this.
