Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, September 6, 2013 – 10:00 a.m.

Time passes and leaves traces for better or worse; such is the movement of life. No incarnation is perfect, though each one of them tends towards this state of perfection – there lies one of the reasons for these many returns to the world of matter. Each return offers an opportunity to grow, to refine oneself and to progress towards the goal, but one still has to seize that opportunity and be in the proper conditions for acting as needed. Nothing is simple here below; happy are those who find the right way, as they save valuable time. These many messages are intended to help our brothers and sisters; there can be so much turbulence occurring in and around them.

The means we propose are designed to help abhyasis divest themselves of the unnecessary and understand where the real source lies – that is to say, within themselves: the divine essence residing in this sacred place, at the very core of this organ that is decisive in the life of a human being – namely, the heart. There lies the central point of all hopes and of a significant transformation that leads the being to bliss. Every step taken in the work that we offer helps seekers overcome their weaknesses and transcend whatever binds them to this world. The soul yearns to rise. When a being enters into this process with all sincerity, the soul advances and gradually conquers that space of peace and love. May all achieve it and forge ahead, with the resolve to progress and to open up to the higher reality; there lies the goal to be reached.
