Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, September 7, 2013 – 10:00 a.m.

These writings are jewels of the Spirit; blessed are those who appreciate and fully benefit from them. In this way they acquire a precious asset that is more valuable than it may seem; in a mere reading of the messages, sufficiently open minds are not mistaken about it. Spiritual life does not reveal itself unless there is a deep and sincere call. This call comes at the appointed time, when the moment is conducive to a beneficial advancement. Each journey is different, bringing an element to the edifice, to one's knowledge and to the request of an ardent heart. There lies a revelation; in the case of some beings, it can completely change their lives. Many such cases have left their mark on history and remained an example since ancient times. Human beings are like this; they cannot say or confirm what they will be tomorrow – such are the mysteries of a life. A human being's life can be completely changed when the soul manifests its expectation and thirst for the Divine. This is the goal of every life; committing oneself in such a way is a sign of wisdom, whose full scope can be brought to light over time. Blessed are those who open themselves to this path of the heart, the only one that goes to what is essential, towards the goal of every soul in search of the divine goal. Our effective support manifests constantly, according to the call. All will reach the goal sooner or later; there lies our greatest joy.
