Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, September 12, 2013 — 10:00 a.m.

Incarnations on this Earth follow one another and they are a human being's most precious asset. In each incarnation, all are offered an opportunity that must be seized in order for them to learn, grow and open up to divine splendour. It can take a long time for one's subtlety to awaken to the Divine. Nothing can be forced; only a deep and sincere call determines one's path. In this area, everything happens at the appointed time. The ability to love can sometimes take a very long time to manifest. Without this powerful force and its effectiveness, human beings would remain limited and confined to their own principles. Blessed are those who possess this treasure; they can be grateful for having earned such an asset. Following a spiritual way shapes the heart's longing to emerge in the ocean of love which this asset generates.

"The era of spirituality is dawning, slowly but surely. Undoubtedly, there will emerge from the current cesspool a growing number of souls thirsty for the Divine. This is inevitable. The divine plans are designed well ahead of time; their materialisation is painfully slow on Earth, but isn't it said 'What must be will be'? Inevitably, the divine laws will prevail on this Earth and they will lead, if not to a perfect world, to an energy capable of transforming human beings and allowing them to access their best. So will it be — let us repeat it with conviction."
