Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, November 23, 2013 — 10:00 a.m.

We don't intend our comments to be literary; they are simple and they must keep this feature. Our objective is to touch hearts and open the doors onto a sacred space that is conducive to their evolution. So many aspects need considering in a spiritual process: opening the way, fostering the aspiration for the Divine, and continuously providing the elements capable of touching hearts in their quest — one that is so very rewarding. This kind of approach bears fruit far beyond the current incarnation. Each incarnation receives according to the call of the heart and the resulting fervour. Nothing is lost in this special process. Blessed and strengthened are hearts that are eager to love and serve. Our beautiful and great Mission needs them; it is no accident that they are abhyasis. They may believe this, as their commitment bears fruit beyond their imagination. The divine power operates in its own way, in secrecy. It is said that the pure in heart will see the light. They can be convinced of it and move fervently in this way of the heart that is so especially effective. Everyone is supported and assisted according to their call. May all remain motivated and confident in their process; they will reap the fruits thereof. They are carried by our love."
