Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, December 8, 2013 — 10:00 a.m.

All experiences, including tests, are necessary. Humans cannot easily understand this principle as it relates to human evolution, but it is somehow the basis of a divine order prevailing in this world, and elsewhere on other planes of consciousness. Coming to an understanding of the need to advance spiritually is a great step on this initiatory journey. All human beings do not have this opportunity; it can take time to realise how such a process can contribute to the development of the whole being.

"Life remains a mystery to most humans, and trusting the Master in a way like ours is critical. Whatever one's personality, no one can personally resolve this divine puzzle. Time does its work. Embarking on a spiritual path denotes a certain wisdom and shows the potential held within the seeker, whose appeal is always heard. Nothing is pointless; everything is counted and recorded in the kingdom where humans, in their smallness, are never ignored. All our abhyasis are on their way and are guided according to their longing to be united with the Divine, under the protection of the enlightened Master who was destined for them. Thus do all individuals proceed according to their strong motivation, so that the best can be accomplished — with assistance, along with our blessings."
