Whispers from The Brighter World

Tuesday, July 20, 1999 – 10:00 a.m.

Be patient for this ashram, we told you that it was not forgotten, it's only being restructured. Certain egos, quite strong, believe they are doing the right thing, and hinder the process.

It is a matter of time. There too, what must be will be. See it in all its splendour, radiating an intense divine energy. It is its destiny. There, as elsewhere, its spiritual entity will follow.

God manages things in his own way; time is an earthly concept.

Take advantage of the rest of your life to follow the program set for you. Follow it with your heart, with courage and great humility for the trust we place in you.

The Medium: How can I not be humbled, Babuji, I feel myself so unworthy of what you do for me.

That is good, so stay with that feeling, it is what we like in you – this detachment from everything we tell you regarding your spiritual role.

That way, your ego is not likely to make you believe you are superior and does not disturb your behaviour.

My dear daughter, we know that your love is selfless and unconditional, which is not the case for many aspirants who surround the incarnate Masters.

It is a blessing for you to react in this way and to consider yourself as not really concerned with our favourable comments.

Continue like this; one day you will verify the reality of all these remarks.

Babuji
