Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, December 22, 2013 – 10:00 a.m.

My dear son, this great and enlightened being, quickly understood the importance of these messages. Whether or not they are valued by all our abhyasis, most benefit from them and are also progressing by reading them. Time will give these writings an importance that will benefit our Mission, and for a very long time. They are already, and will remain, a source of inspiration for a great many people. Let us continue a while longer to transmit these words; they are and will remain a very worthwhile link with the hearts of our fervent abhyasis.

Time allows our aspirants to advance, to broaden their perception and to make real progress, even if they do not truly realise it. Such a process bears everlasting fruit when it is assimilated with the fervour and love that this teaching is meant to develop in people. A life is short in the face of eternity; becoming fully aware of this encourages one to not waste time in meaningless pursuits. The ego can create resistances; these usually dissipate with spiritual growth and an opening of the heart. The heart is the true treasure of the human being; it connects a person to the divine energy, to the higher powers that include all the Masters of high calibre, who are working for the good of humanity. Our way exists through their will; it is working wonders and will continue to do so over time. How highly blessed is this Mission, which attracts for their greatest benefit all enlightened and fervent beings.
