Whispers from The Brighter World

Tuesday, December 24, 2013 - 10:00 a.m.

Despite the excesses that surround it, many still comply with the spirit of Christmas in all its significance. Every nation has its customs and ideals; the important thing is sincerity towards the event. Spiritual commitment is essential in an incarnation, as it allows the soul to flourish and move towards bliss. That is the ultimate goal, and achieving it is a true blessing. Blessed are the pure in heart who are dedicated to a unique path that distinguishes them with respect to their fervour and faith.

"Our Mission is attracting many souls who are also seeking. It is blessed by the Gods. Very Great Beings have been supporting it from the beginning, manifesting in their own time and manner so as to reaffirm their approval and love for it, and to thus grant it their attention. Some of our abhyasis have had and are still having great experiences, and we are happy for that. Masters are and will remain the pillars of this Mission whose scope and action in the hearts will be confirmed over time. Happy are those who understand it and seize this rare opportunity in life to follow an effective way that can truly lead to their inner advancement. The hierarchy is and will always be blessed by higher powers that are working on the worlds, which are more numerous than Earthlings believe. It is up to each one to seize this opportunity to advance and rise above the miasma of materiality. May all be strengthened and motivated in their commitment as is proper."
