Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, December 25, 2013 – 10:00 a.m.

Today's loneliness unites you even more with us. Love carries you and is your most precious asset. Nothing diverts you from your objective; like many of our abhyasis, you hold dear – despite everything – this treasure of the union of the heart with the Master and the higher powers. In this material world, everything is trivial; when an incarnation ends, other prospects then open up, effectively putting into clear perspective the joys, sorrows and hazards that abound throughout a lifetime.

A commitment to a spiritual path transforms one's vision and motivates the aspirant. The fervour it generates transforms the being and allows for the expansion of consciousness. We do not promise miracles, they are everywhere. No path is privileged in this regard. Only the faith and destiny of each person matter. Everything is planned and realised at the right moment; when a soul is touched by grace, anything can happen, generating what was unimaginable. The divine power is great – what can it not achieve? Its action has no limit. Even the Great Beings who serve it are sometimes astonished by its power of action, as it works through them or through various circumstances. Nothing happens in vain; joys, sorrows and sufferings of all sorts are precious pearls which, when offered up, yield the best. Happy are the hearts that work for us; faithfulness in action bears fruit of inestimable value. Nothing is in vain, everything is counted. May all be carried by grace.
