Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, July 7, 1999 – 10:00 a.m.

We are not monsters of indifference to the miseries of humanity, in spite of the things we say in certain circumstances to make you understand why things happen.

This suffering body puts you in a difficult situation for managing daily life. We help you to find a satisfactory solution. We see your struggles; you need a safe and quiet environment around you and someone you can count on. In a few days, we will see more clearly.

We who see with the benefit of hindsight what you all have to go through, we do not always react as you would wish us to.

Our comments can seem harsh to you at times, and yet it is not what you imagine.

The Medium: The channel is disrupted, Babuji, I am not able to concentrate.

We understand, calm down. Try to overcome this succession of shocks.
Immerse yourself in our love.
