Whispers from The Brighter World

Communicating by spiritual means as we do here is not commonplace; one could even say it is unique, and the number of resulting messages is itself impressive. It is not about stringing words together on paper, but rather capturing the subtlety of this contact. This subtlety unfolds to the reader who unwittingly — we might say — perceives it according to his or her level of surrender to the transmission.

"So many things can be accomplished in secrecy; the way of the heart has strengths that are not revealed on the material plane. This is precisely the reason for its strength and the results produced in beings who are very sensitive to its action. All benefit from it according to their longing to unite with the Divine. Everyone has their own potential, to which is added the work of the incarnate Master and the extensions of that work through practice, including the action of prefects who are trained to relay what we give them for that purpose.

"All this is not simple to understand, but the results are there and the efficacy of the system over time cannot be contested. This spiritual way is desired by the higher powers, who always act according to the overall evolution of beings and their ability to receive and relay as appropriate. These writings pertain to this rich heritage, and they will remain a very important achievement for our Mission; time will clarify all of this. May each of our abhyasis fully benefit from what we offer."
