Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, January 8, 2014 – 10:00 a.m.

Nourishing oneself spiritually requires as much constancy and continual repetition as feeding the physical body. The spirit too has its own requirements, yet the important thing is to understand it and respond satisfactorily to its aspirations. So many people neglect this way of conceiving life and they miss the 'essential', one might say. Nourishing the spirit, affirming oneself and going deeper into what is most important in oneself – all this responds to an absolute necessity. Blessed are those who have understood this and who, from their youth, have seized this opportunity to work in the best direction. The way of the heart opens up infinite perspectives for them. Their current approach reveals a certain openness of mind and a very ancient commitment to the search for the absolute splendour. We are guiding these souls on their journey; when they find the 'way', they engage in it fully.

It is beautiful for us to see a soul blossoming and feeding on the Divine. Each incarnation offers this opportunity and allows the seeker to move forward, to grasp more deeply the importance of turning to the eternal source, the goal of every life in its full realisation. When a soul opens up to the higher reality, we are extremely happy. Thus does the eternal cycle of life carry on to its highest destiny. Peace, love and success to all.
