Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, January 15, 2014 – 10:00 a.m.

Let yourself be carried by these waves of love; your heart awaits only that, this unique rendezvous where the wonder can occur, the writing of the words we inspire in you. It is a fact not yet easily understood by all, but this means has been used since ancient times, even before the advent of writing as it is known in today's world.

Divine inspiration manifests in more ways than one; it creates movements of thought capable of furthering human evolution. Everything happens very slowly on Earth; this pace must be respected – it corresponds to the real needs of the times. Unfortunately, it cannot be hurried; everything has its raison d'être. Only major upheavals will accelerate the movement and lead humanity to a more accurate view of reality. What is not understood is very poorly interpreted; that is in the order of things.

Following a spiritual way that does not neglect what is essential opens up perspectives for seekers, allowing them to progress. Throughout history, ignorance has been maintained, for reasons that are easy to understand; other perspectives point to a truth that many very open-minded people are already perceiving. When the time of enlightenment and knowledge has come, then another ideal of life, more in keeping with the higher will, will establish itself here below. May all truly interiorise themselves and win over this sacred space within, where what must be comes to fruition. We help them in this as best we can.
