Whispers from The Brighter World

Repetition is necessary. Is it not the very principle of life in all its manifestations! It shapes the human being's development on the material and spiritual planes. As for the various means that help humans in their spiritual advancement, do they have recourse to anything else? Repetition helps aspirants in their practice. This practice does not demand much — only what is necessary to reach the goal with the appropriate commitment of heart. Isn't the heart the seat of the soul? What is most important takes place there, prior to a very subtle process that goes well beyond the material plane. It takes time to really become aware of all the key aspects in a process of this kind. The method proposed in our way goes beyond rituals on the material plane.

"Sahaj Marg, in its simplicity, has remarkable effects on beings who are really committed and aware of the advancement it generates. All benefit from such subtle and promising work; true commitment is the best guarantee of success in this area. Wasn't it said: 'Draw me, we will run after thee.' The effects of this attraction are revealed in our Mission as it spreads throughout the world. This is only the beginning; the action of the Mission expands in hearts during this era of transition, preparing for times that will be more open to the subtlety of a spiritual journey. Everything takes place slowly here below and what must be will be; the divine laws operate as needed — at the appropriate time. Humanity has reached a threshold where everything will necessarily collapse and be rebuilt on new foundations. This is highly obvious, and it will take place for the good of all; we work accordingly, in the hope of a better world."
